RE: Dennis J. Cook
DOB 4-5-55

Dear Mr. Kelley:

I am responding to your June 20th letter regarding Mr. Cook. I note that the release of information is signed by Mr. Cook. I have reviewed Mr. Cook's records since I have been seeing him to prepare this report. I note that the records are considerable consisting of three volumes, and I have been seeing Mr. Cook since 1994. Mr. Cook has always had strong convictions and strong spirituality. As I noted in my letter to you of September 11, 1998, these issues have led Mr. Cook to focus on rules and details which in the past have led him to be reactive at times along with his mood disorder. This can lead to a conflict, especially when he is outspoken about it. The goals through the years have been to try to maintain mood stability and composure. Initial diagnoses were psychothymia reflecting his mood swings and periodic bursts of intensity although at that point, in the early mid 90s did not feel that he met the criteria for bipolar II. However, later in the late 90s, I felt that the mood swings were sufficient to justify bipolar II diagnosis. By March 1999 I had been treating him as bipolar II.

Since the conflict with the city of Norwood in 1998 through 1999, his mood disorder has exacerbated. He had a long hospitalization from June 10 to July 11, 1999 with symptoms of major depression and related surges of emotional intensity due to the exacerbating precipitating events (the precipitating events had to do with the conflict with the city, but also with despair over family relationships).

The multitude of details regarding Mr. Cook's treatment prior to 1998 and since his hospitalization in 1999 can be gleaned from the records with Mr. Cook's permission. I see my role as expressing opinions on his diagnosis and treatment, but not that of becoming a forensic evaluator. Being as I was Mr. Cook's treating physician those opinions regarding his injury would probably best be assessed by an independent evaluator. I can say that the hospitalization in June 1999 represents a point of exacerbation of Mr. Cook's condition and he has struggled with these issues since. His prognosis for future treatment is significant with regard to needing a counseling process, with medication, for the foreseeable future. I note that Mr. Cook needed this process prior to the events of 1998 and 1999. Please note my enclosures.

Respectfully,

David A. Helm, M.D.

Re: Dennis J. Cook
SS#: 280-56-0607

Dear Mr. Kelly:

As you are aware I have had the opportunities to see and evaluate Mr. Dennis J. Cook on a number of different occasions. I initially saw him on August 27, 1998 and at that time I prepared a report dated September 1, 1998 identifying my opinions and conclusions in regards to his state at that time. Also at that time I identified the fact that Mr. Cook did suffer from psychological conditions and that he had been under the treatment and care of Dr. Helms. It was my professional opinion that although he suffered from psychological conditions that they in their own right would not prevent him from being able to continue in his normal or customary work activity. It was evident that he also suffered from various physical problems associated with both his cervical and lumbar back.

Next, I had the opportunity to evaluate Mr. Cook on November 18, 1999. At that time it was my professional opinion that Mr. Cook's condition had deteriorated since my initial evaluation of August 27, 1998. I was more aware of the fact that this client had undergone consistent stressors during his employment with the City of Norwood resulting in significantly higher degrees of psychological trauma. It was my professional opinion within reasonable vocational certainty that Mr. Cook had sustained an occupational disability as a result of his employment with the City of Norwood. His impairments included both mental and physical conditions.

On September 5, 2000 I rendered another report indicating that it was my professional opinion that Mr. Cook was 50% of the way between a disabled and non-disabled individual in relationship to his employment and participation in the labor force. It was further my opinion that his post injury capacity to earn would best be reflected of an individual earning $26,054.00 in 1998 dollars.

Lastly, Mr. Cook was seen in my office on June 25, 2002. At that time he appears as a 47-year-old white male who came dressed in soiled blue-jeans, T-shirt and ballcap. He was carrying a folder and was noted to be significantly more nervous than on any contact in the past. He did inform me that he was taking significant amounts of medication, seven of which were provided by Dr. Helms, his psychiatrist, and four being provided by his general practitioner, Dr. Pembaur. It was noted that his speech was somewhat slurred, perhaps due to the medications, but also perhaps due to the fact that he seems to be under significant stressors at the present time. He informed me that he had been hospitalized twice in 2000, once in 1999, and most recently in 2001 for 14 days as a direct probate from his psychiatrist. Apparently at that time he was decompensating to the point where he was becoming both suicidal and homicidal. He continues to be fixated with his position at Norwood and the psychological trauma that they place him in during his employment. He now suffers from significant financial problems as a result of not having worked for a long period of time. Several of his children also seemed to be difficult for him and he has now noticed significant physical problems including shaking in his legs.

It is evident that Mr. Cook does not have the ability to sustain himself in any one activity. His mind wanders quickly and he is fixated on various problems of the past. He has difficulty getting along with others. He also recognizes a very poor memory.

He is now presently living at home with all of his children, his oldest daughter's boyfriend, his brother and one infant child. This adds up to a total of eleven people living in a single family home. There is very little employment, and obviously a number of financial problems. He most recently borrowed money in order to be able to maintain his medical coverage which is obviously somewhat significant on the basis of just the medications he is taking, but also on the fact that he has both physical and mental impairment.

His presentation at the time of my last interview and objective measurements indicates that there is significant memory loss. He appears at the present to be a person who is having problems with both his general and working memories. He has difficulty being able to follow more than one-step processes, and even then he becomes agitated and withdraws. His presentation indicates a very nervous and anxious individual, and he does not feel comfortable in almost all settings including his own home environment.

The combination of factors that I saw on June 25, 2002 in relationship to my initial contact in 1998 clearly indicates that Mr. Cook's psychological as well as physical condition appears to have gotten worse. It is now evident that he would be unable to perform any work activity on a sustained basis, therefore it is my professional opinion within reasonable psychological certainty that Mr. Cook would be unable to perform any sustained work activity now or in the foreseeable future.

Sincerely,

George E. Parsons, Ph.D.

P & E ADJUSTMENT

DEGREE OF DISABILITY

Dennis J. Cook

AVERAGE WORKER P.E.

AVERAGE DISABLED WORKER P.E. = .32

INSTRUCTIONS: Please complete the blank line noting the joint PE rate for an average disabled worker.

Then, market an "X" where the individual falls between an average worker PE and an average disabled worker PE. Write the percentage next to the "X". This is especially important when the percentile rating is not in 10% increments.

This differential will remain the same through time.
